NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O.,—Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown has one hundred and fifty young women and men engaged in addressing publicity pamphlets, on which is printed the proposed amendment to the constitution of Ohio, which is to be submitted to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on November 6th. The pamphlets also contain an argument in favor of the proposed amendment and also an argument in opposition to it. These pamphlets are printed and distributed by Secretary Brown in accordance with the provisions of the General Code of Ohio. The Board of Control has approved an appropriation of $15,000 for the work. Approximately 1,000,000 of the pamphlets will be sent through the mail and 1,000,000 distributed by other means.

The final curtain has been rung down on Ohio fairs for 1928, closing with the big Fairfield county fair at Lancaster last Saturday with a record attendance. It is the last fair in the state and horsemen, concession men and patrons of fairs flock to the county capital for the final event, as it has the reputation of being one of the big fairs of the state. Another incentive perhaps to draw the crowd is the fact that only 25 cents admission is charged to the grounds. The annual Circleville Pumpkin Show is being held this week, the 17, 18 and 19, and this gala event will also draw large crowds to the Pickaway county capital.

Ohio voters will have a choice of 253 candidates to select from when they enter the booth to cast their ballots on November 6th. There will be four ballots, the Judicial with twelve candidates, the Amendment to the Constitution relative to salary increases of Ohio Judges, on which the voter simply marks his ballot "Yes" or "No," six tickets on the state ballot with 114 candidates and six tickets also on the Residential ballot with 122 candidates, which includes the Presidential electors.

An intensive drive to immunize children against diphtheria is now being carried on over Ohio, under the direction of Director John E. Monger, of the State Department of Health and the county health commissioners of the state. It is expected that over 100,000 children will benefit by participation in this campaign. The annual conference of the Health Commissioners and the State Department of Health will be held in this city for the four days following the fall election, November 7 to 10th.

Superintendent Thos. P. Kearns of the Division of Safety and Hygiene of the Industrial Commission of Ohio reports the largest number of industrial fatalities of any month since January, 1926, for the month of August this year, with a record of 121, exceeding the previous high record of June, 1926, by seven and 83 more than for July, 1928, and 43 more than for August 1927. There was a total number of 23,485 for injuries filed in August, the largest number recorded in any month since January 1926. This was also 3,400 more than in August, 1927.

Welfare Director J. W. Harper has ordered the transfer of between five and six hundred prisoners from Ohio Penitentiary to the London Prison Farm. They will be transferred in the very near future in order that congestion at the former penal institution may be relieved. Two new wings are being completed at the London Farm and a new concrete cell block is also under construction. This will give the farm accommodations for about 1,200 prisoners. Population of the state's four penal institutions average 8,233 daily, according to latest report.

Teachers' Meeting Postponed Until Nov. 3

The regular meeting of the Greene County Teachers' Association called for October 20 at Bowersville has been postponed until November 3 according to the executive committee. The speakers on the program will be George Morris, state rural school supervisor, and Dr. W. R. McChesney.

REPUBLICAN GLEE CLUB WILL SING AT CLIFTON

The famous Republican Glee Club of Columbus, will sing at the Seventh Congressional District rally at Clifton, October 20th. At this time Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, will be the big drawing card. Myers Y. Cooper, Senator Fess and other candidates will also be present. A caravan of Cincinnati Republican politicians will motor to Clifton for the meeting.

Many Farmers Are Skeptical Of Al Smith's Farm Knowledge

Former Farm Bureau President Contrasts Governor's Ignorance With Hoover's Understanding

Farmers of the country are skeptical of the understanding and sympathies of a New York City-bred President for solution of their problems. O. E. Bradfute, of Xenia, O., former president of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation and the American Farm Bureau federation, has advised Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican National Committee.

LETTER FROM EGYPT

Assiut College, Assiut, Egypt, September 26, 1928

Mr. Karth Bull, Editor, Cedarville Herald, Cedarville, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Bull: Having been a weekly reader of the Cedarville Herald, even though several thousand miles distant for the past three years, I feel that it is my duty to contribute a bit of my travel experience to other readers of the Herald. Meager though these experiences are, yet they might contain a note of interest here or there for the casual reader.

At the beginning of my fourth year of work in this valley of the Nile in the environment of the most interesting ancient civilization that has existed. The present year of service expired last year. I find my relation a bit changed as regards the College of Assiut, since my was asked to remain an extra year and assume the duties of the Head of the English Department in the College. Since I am on the spot, I have actually started upon the duties of said position and am finding the work quite interesting in its responsibilities.

Incidentally, the English department is the largest one in the College as all students of our enrollment of some seven hundred boys are required by Governmental orders to study at least eight hours of English each week. The teaching of English is like the teaching of a foreign language at home and all the work is done in the direct method of teaching. To uruck in the five new men, who are on our staff of English teachers is proving a fascinating task. They have brought new life and pep to our group. Such renewal of zip is essential for one soon takes on the attitude and feelings of the Orient as regards being overly ambitious in activities in this country where one hundred degrees in the shade is considered a rather low temperature.

The sixty fourth year of our College started off with a bang some three weeks ago. Student competition is growing keener and keener each year and more schools are being established around us each year. In spite of all this our enrollment is the best it has been for several years. It will soon hit the seven hundred mark.

One of the assets of being a professor in Assiut College is the opportunity of travel afforded each Summer. Summer, a year ago, found me yamting about through Asia Minor and along the coast of the Levant, through Turkey, the Balkans and then settling in Switzerland for a time. Summer before last was utilized in a trip up the Nile through Central Africa into Abyssinia. This past Summer which was to be my last one spent in Europe was used in wandering about Northern Europe.

My traveling companion was Simon Vellenga, a fellow teacher who hails from Bellefontaine, Ohio, but who graduated from Monmouth College, Illinois. Our goal was to get to Scotland and this we did. As a means to an end we shipped across to Piraeus, Greece, and there gave the Acropolis, Parthenon and the first Olympic stadium, the once over. From Athens we gave two perfectly good days of our lives to a train ride through Greece, Jugo-slavia, Hungary and on to Vienna, Austria. Having reposed for fifty two hours on the hard oaken benches of a third class Balkan train, we rested our weary sitting positions for a few days in Vienna.

A day was spent on the Blue Danube, which by the way is a misnomer. The Ohio River at Cincinnati on a spring day looks clean in comparison. The Danube scenery is hard to beat, however. This took us to Linz, from whence we again hopped a train through Czechoslovakia, bound for Berlin. Berlin is a peach of a city and has never been overrated in its beauty and prosperous attitude. Say nothing about a comeback after a war crisis. Germany has done it. The crops of the country remind one that the land is flowing with milk and honey, and the happiness and industry of the people are manifest on all sides.

We chartered a boat from Hamburg across the North Sea to Lethin in northern Scotland. I say chartered, for the boat was an overgrown wash tub, and shook accordingly, on the rough and stormy North Sea. It was so cold that we thought we had gone out in search for Amundsen and his party, before we hit Lethin.

The grandeur of the natural beauty of Scotland is appreciated only by those who have seen it and the Scottish people. We followed the ride of Tom O'Shanter on his Grey Mare thru the Burns Country and over the "Two Brig" near the Doonee. "The Lady of The Lake" through which I struggled in High School was made realistic as we took stagecoach down in the Trossachs that connect Loch Achray with Loch Katrine, and then wandered out to Ellen's Isle. A week spent in Glasgow with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Formerly Miss Bertha Collins) revealed to us Scottish life and Scottish history in a way not obtained by the ordinary tourist.

The Royal Scott conveyed us at neck-break speed from Glasgow to London. It traverses nearly the entire length of the Isles in this journey without a stop. Having stayed in Great Britain as long as our transit Visa allowed, it behooved us to get out the fastest way possible. We did, for we flew. Three hours to cross the Channel to Ostend, over Belgium, a stop at Rotterdam on account of plane trouble, into a new plane and on to Amsterdam. Sitting three thousand feet in the air above the apparent placid waters of the English Channel, (They're never placid) we wrote letters and read a New York Herald, which we had purchased in London at noon, and which had been printed in Paris in the morning, about the Cincinnati Reds beating the Giants the previous day. How is that for speed? Yes we were going better than one hundred miles per hour.

In Amsterdam we were privileged to watch the athletes of Uncle Sam romp over those of the rest of the world in the Olympic games. We lost many of the track events, but only one excuse is acceptable. The other countries had better runners than did Uncle Sam. We sat within twenty yards of the straight-away of the track and took in the races for six days, which culminated in the Marathon race of twenty six miles on the final day. Barbutti, of the United States, who won the 400 meter race by a final lunge for the tape redeemed some of the lost territory by our athletes. To see Nurmi pace Ritolaat Finland for ten thousand meters and then edge him out in the last ten meters was a thrill never to be forgotten.

The stadium seated about forty thousand and was erected for the special occasion. After the winning of each event a flag was hoisted for the winning country and the band

COOPER OPTIMISTIC

A recent photograph of Herbert Hoover, Republican Presidential Nominee, taken with Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, Ohio Republican gubernatorial candidate, taken when the latter was in Washington as guest of President Coolidge.

Washington, D. C., October 18 (Special Dispatch).—Carrying to President Coolidge and to Herbert Hoover tidings filled with optimism as regards the political outlook in his native state, Myers Y. Cooper, Republican Nominee for Governor in Ohio, predicted a decisive Republican victory in the Buckeye state this fall, when here recently as a luncheon guest of the President.

"Despite the fact that Republican leaders in Ohio are certain of achieving a sweeping victory both for the national and for the state tickets, the intensive campaign now under way in our state will be prosecuted with the same vigor and determination as in any other state," Cooper stated while here.

The gubernatorial Nominee asserted that a vast majority of Ohioans were most enthusiastic over the success of the Coolidge administration, and were confident that Mr. Hoover is capable of carrying on the Coolidge policies, thus continuing the resultant era of prosperity and of tax-reduction.

Cooper also declared that "Ohio voters this year were determined that a Republican administration be placed in charge of affairs in that state in order that Ohio, as has the nation, might enjoy a further brightening of the economic situation, and a sound, practical business methods, devoid of waste, extravagance and incompetency."

Freshies Break Up Sophomore Feed

The College Sophomore class laid elaborate plans for a feed at the cliffs west of town last Thursday evening. Much like events of that kind it fell to the lot of the Freshman class to spoil the arrangements if possible. As a penalty the Sophomores captured a number of the Freshies and gave them country rides with the choice of walking back. Most of them were taken to unknown spots on side roads and dropped out. The Freshman girls had the penalty of a shorter ride but with shoes and stockings removed, had to "bare-foot" it back to town.

WSAI TO BE DAYTIME BROADCASTING STATION

Local radio fans will be interested in an announcement by the federal radio commission that station WSAI, Cincinnati, is to get an assignment for daytime broadcasting only after November 11. WLW will be the only station to have night programs in this section. The first order was that WSAI must divide time with WLW.

"SEA ADLERS" MANY TRICKS FOOLED ALLIES

Secret Compartments Held Many Interesting Secrets—Crew Disguised as Norwegian Sailors

Count Felix von Luckner who is to tell of his strange and thrilling adventures as commander of the German "Seeadler" during the war, will be here on the evening of Thursday, October 25th, at Cedarville. He is distinguished as the only German combatant who was officially honored by the American Legion and wine and dined in England by the very men he so amusingly outwitted during the war.

He is an aristocrat, who as a youth ran away to become a common sailor abroad windjammers in the merchant marines of the United States, England and other countries. He is the only man who had risen from a sailor's bunk to become a high officer of the Imperial German Navy. A rough-and-ready character noted for direct action, sulphurous language and hearty humor, he tells an amazing story in his breeziest manner.

What trick apparatus the Count installed aboard his three-master! The floor of his own cabin was an elevator which could be lowered suddenly into the hold if hostile inspecting officers visited his disguised ship. Guns were concealed with unheard-of ingenuity. There was also a hidden motor, which could propel the sailing vessel with surprising speed when she pursued her prey, or when she needed to escape. Every man aboard her had to be a natural actor, schooled to play a part. Captain von Luckner himself was "Captain Knudsen" of the Norwegian merchant marine and he hugely enjoyed his role as star and stage director. His cast even called for a female impersonator!

Count von Luckner's raider boldly tricked its way through the blockade, sank millions of dollars worth of Allied ships, kept all the prisoner crews aboard as friendly guests and was finally wrecked in the South Atlantic. How this intrepid buccaner built a crude open boat and sailed hundreds of miles in quest of further adventures—and he found them! He also found a wife on a little Pacific Isle amid most romantic circumstances.

The Count was warned by the German Admiralty that there was but one chance in a hundred that he could safely sail through the triple blockade and several of the Admiralty leaders advised stringently against the move. The ship was fitted up in an atmosphere of mystery in the German Naval Yards and the very secrecy surrounding the remodeling of the boat into a trick ship almost caused the arrest of von Luckner by the German Intelligence Department. His thrilling story of adventure, spy work and comic opera exploits on the Seven Seas is a graphic and tremendously interesting story.

TRACTION LINE IS TO QUIT BUSINESS

A few years back the announcement that a traction line was to discontinue business generally brought a protest from the citizens in that locality, but not so nowadays. The Springfield and Xenia Traction line is to be sold for junk due to the fact that the line has not been paying. It is said the company has arranged for a permit to operate a bus line between Springfield and Xenia.

Will Dedicate Fish Hatchery

Charles V. Truax, state director of agriculture, will talk on the conservation of fish and game when the State fish hatchery on the Springfield and Xenia pike is dedicated Monday. Representative R. D. Williamson, is a member of the state board of agriculture, and has been instrumental in locating the hatchery in this country. The ceremony will be held at 2 P. M. The Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association will attend.

SHOWING GOOD PICTURES

Messrs E. G. Lowry and J. N. Cresswell have considered themselves lucky to present to the people of this community the class of pictures they have booked. In the booking of the pictures care was taken to get the best and yet leave a margin for profit. So far in the season the show has been a success and they wish to take this means of thanking all their patrons and trusting in their continued patronage. Some of the specials booked for the coming months are: "Street Angle," "The Tempest," "Four Sons," "Sorrow and Son" and others.

MAINTAIN OUR PROTECTION

As the continual argument over the advantage and disadvantage of the protective tariff are thrashed out it becomes increasingly apparent that the principles of Free Trade are not practical, and would be ruinous to a large part of our population.

Our sugar producers, for example, must compete with production in the Philippines and Cuba where work is done by a poorly paid working class. Our farmers are in direct competition with European and other foreign producers where agriculture costs are immeasurably lower than ours. Our industrial workers must meet the commodities produced in nations where industrial work means long hours, low pay, poor living conditions, and inferior working conditions.

Obviously, the chief protection we have against lowering our standards of pay and hours to meet foreign practices is the tariff.

ELECTRIC ADVANTAGES ON THE FARM

We were interested in a statement the other day by Manager Heathman of the local branch of the Dayton Power & Light Co., that his company was now building numerous lines over the country for distribution of electricity in farm homes. Moreover he says they have many requests for this service. This is an indication that most farmers desire to lift themselves and their families from the drudgery that is evident on every farm that does not have such a service.

With this power available the farmer can have his automatic electric pump for water supply at the barn and in the house. He can grind and mix much of his feed that must be purchased otherwise without it. He can have lights where he pleases and herein is one of the best protections possible against the ordinary farm pilfering at night, particularly in protecting the poultry.

In the farm home electricity is a necessity and not a luxury. Power for the washing machine, the iron, the milk separator and other labor saving devices is the best "buy" a farmer can make for his wife. We have the automobile and good roads and the farmer with the telephone and radio is near par with his city dweller but if he lack electrification on the farm he is missing much that would contribute to his own economic prosperity and the welfare of his family.

BUYING YOURSELF A WIFE IN OHIO

Society in one of our neighboring cities has been more or less disturbed over a recent divorce suit and incidents connected with it. All the principals are very prominent people and the events leading up to this suit brings to the front the fact that our divorce laws, or our courts, are either not in harmony with the public sentiment, or are very weak.

A very wealthy and prominent business man made the bold offer of one million dollars to another business man in that city if he would divorce his wife. This lead to almost a city wide sensation and the wife of the man that made the offer, coming from a highly respected family, could not withstand the humiliation and as a result was granted a divorce just a few days ago.

The weakness of the divorce law is that the fellow that wanted to purchase another man's wife by the divorce route is now free and can legally marry whom he pleases, whether he succeeds in separating the second couple or not. It should not be possible for him to get a marriage license in any state that he might marry again. The wife no doubt was justified in being released from her husband but he should not be permitted to marry anyone.

THE PROBLEM OF TAX PAYING AND SPENDING

If we must maintain government, federal, state or local, we must expect a reasonable amount of money being collected for that purpose. Taxation is a necessity but the taxpayer should have something to say about it and not some autocratic state board located in some distant city of the state.

It is not altogether the amount of our taxes that we should consider but whether this tax money is wisely spent and for purposes that will benefit the greatest number of citizens in the district from which it is collected.

Locally Cedarville has been fortunate in recent years in having a very reasonable tax rate irrespective of some very important improvements that have proven beneficial to the property owners and the public in general. Money that has gone into our paved streets, the new school building, and fire equipment has been wisely spent. We never hear complaint about such expenditures now that these modern conveniences are in daily use.

When we compare the tax rate for Cedarville for the coming year with that of some of our neighboring towns which are higher, we feel proud of the record of our local township and school officials. For this coming year there is to be no increase locally.

In view of the fact that the paved street is nearly all paid for we now look forward to another improvement without having back debts to stare us in the face. Every town of this size should have a waterworks system. It is necessary for many reasons and once installed and in use the public would wonder how we got along without it. At this present time many cisterns are dry and water low in most wells. With waterworks these things do not happen.

Tax money for waterworks would be a good investment for the town. With electric lights, good sidewalks, paved streets, modern schools and a college, this town to keep up with the prosperity and progress of our neighbors must seriously consider a system of waterworks. The question should be discussed by our citizens in the home and in public places. It is the duty of each to inform himself on this subject before making a decision. Our officials have in the past handled the business of the village in a commendable manner and we have had value received by their diligence in serving the public as they would themselves.

We cannot have progress without this investment. We will not be content to stand still for had our citizens in the past taken that attitude we would now be using coal oil street lights in place of electric lights. We know that individually every one can save some money by having waterworks and that is in enjoying a lower rate for fire insurance. A water system has proven profitable in other towns of this size and it would be here if once installed.

COUNT FELIX VON LUCKNER

Count Felix von Luckner, the famous German "Sea Devil," whose trick sailing vessel ran the Allied blockade and sank ship after ship without killing an opponent, is to tell his thrilling story of adventure, spy work and war time come ops exploits here in the near future.

Count von Luckner became a famed buccaner of the South Sea where for eighteen months he brought terror to Allied shipping and yet never permitted the slightest injury to anyone of the hundreds of prisoners he captured. This story is one of the most amazing that has come out of the war and today he is honored and respected not only by his own country, but by the leading Allied nations as well.

LETTER FROM EARL COLLINS

struck up the national anthem. A smaller flag was hoisted for second and third places. We cheered as Old Glory was hoisted on all three flagpoles at one time when our representatives had placed one, two, three in the pole vault. The feeling of a spectator was not that of a college but of National pride in our team.

On our way to Paris we stopped over in Leiden, the Hague and Brussels. From Brussels we paid a visit to the famed battlefield of Ypres. The Prince of Wales had been there the day previous with eleven thousand of his comrades to dedicate the Menin gate just outside the city of Ypres. We missed seeing him, but did not lose any sleep over it, as we had seen him in London as he was on his way to his Dad's tea party for seven thousand guests in the garden of Buckingham Palace. The horrors of war are still manifest by the monuments, tablets and 145 British cemeteries around Ypres. The country shows no signs, to speak of, save that all the trees are young and building are new. All is under cultivation once again, save a very few acres which are preserved on the top of Hill 60.

I will not go any further into detail, save to say that after a few days spent in Paris reviewing old places visited in 1925, we took the train to Marseilles and spent five days, more or less comfortably, on board a French liner that has the Mediterranean Sea for its road.

With greetings to any and all of my friends that might have had the patience to have read this far, may I remain,

Sincerely yours,
M. Earle CollinsHOTEL

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—II Cor. 9:1-15; 9:1-7. GOLDEN TEXT—First gave their own selves to the Lord. PRIMARY TOPIC—Glad Giving. JUNIOR TOPIC—Glad Giving. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What is God's Claim on Us? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Principles of Christian Stewardship.

1. Examples of True Christian Benevolence (II Cor. 9:1-5).

The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every grand principle and motive which enter into the giving which has God's sanction. Observe:

1. This source of true giving (v. 1). This is said to be the grace of God, by which is meant that the disposition to give freely of our means is a disposition created by the Holy Spirit. This puts the Christian giving on a much higher plane than that which brings the people under the bondage of the law to give a tenth.

2. They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2).

Their limited means did not cause them to regret their gift, but their deep poverty abounded unto the "riches of their liberality." On the basis of this philosophy our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return.

3. Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (II Cor. 8:12; 9:7).

If such grace were to come upon the churches today, there would be an abundance of funds to carry on the Lord's work.

4. They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4). They did not need to be pressed into giving. How far we have departed from the apostolic method. Today we employ the awkward and in financial affairs that can be found to make appeals at our missionary meetings and the dedication of our churches.

5. They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5).

This is most fundamental to right giving, for when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not give himself to the Lord there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. The only right method of raising money for the Lord is first to induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord and then to give of their possessions.

6. Emulation of Macedonian Benevolence Urged (II Cor. 8:3-5).

Moved by the generosity of the Macedonians, Paul desired thus to commend to the Corinthians the same grace. This grace he urged upon them, giving:

1. Not as a command (v. 8). It must be spontaneous—liberal.

2. As a proof of the sincerity of the love (v. 8). Love is more than mere sentiment; it is benevolent action toward the object loved.

3. As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, utterance, knowledge, diligence, and in love to their ministers. But the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives.

4. The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the test of love.

5. Because the true principles upon which gifts are acceptable with God is a willing mind (v. 10-12). God does not estimate the value of a gift on the ground of its intrinsic worth, but the underlying motive of the giver.

6. Because of a common equality (v. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is ability.

III. Encouragement to Give (II Cor. 9:6, 7).

1. The volume of reaping is based upon the sowing (v. 6). Those who sow sparingly cannot expect to reap bountifully.

2. There should be a heart purpose (v. 7). This calls for intelligence as to the object of giving.

3. Giving should not be of necessity (v. 7). No particular value accrues to the giver who gives through pressure.

4. God loves a cheerful giver (v. 7). The one who has the right understanding of his responsibility toward God with reference to temporal possessions will regard giving as a glorious privilege.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER

No. 8

By Satterfield

1. After college, Hoover studied the practical side of mining with pick and shovel in Nevada.

2. Promoted to be a field engineer, he made good at a variety of jobs in the mine business.

3. He was sent to Australia to organize a group of mines there along American lines.

4. While at his desk in Australia there came a call to China. This appealed to Hoover's imagination.

An Economical Transportation

Why a Million people bought Chevrolets this year!

Overwhelming public endorsement since the day of its announcement! New heights of popularity month after month in rapid succession! A million new buyers since January 1st!

—such is the spectacular record of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet which makes it today, by a tremendous margin, first choice of the nation for 1928.

In all the automobile industry there are only eight manufacturers who, during their entire existence, have produced a million cars or more. Yet that number of people have bought Chevrolets in less than ten months of the current year! And this tremendous acceptance has been won because the Bigger and Better Chevrolet provides, to an amazing degree, those basic factors of beauty, performance, comfort, distinction and advanced design which the vast majority are now demanding in the cars they buy. Come in! See and drive the car that is scoring the year's greatest success!

Onions Scarcer But Same Old Strength

Onions will not, apparently, be so plentiful this year as in past years, judging by the crop estimates available to the rural economics department of the Ohio State University. These estimates indicate a 1928 onion crop in Ohio of only slightly more than one-half of last year's crop, and a production for the country of only about 13 million bushels compared to about 17,500,000 bushels last year.

During August, the prospects fell off heavily. The August 1 forecast was for about 15 million bushels in the late-onion-producing states. The Ohio crop indicated on September 1 was 1,204,000 bushels, which is considerably less than the anticipations of August 1.

Ohio normally ranks third in the production of late onions, being surpassed by New York and Indiana. The New York crop is now estimated at about one and one half million bushels for the year, compared with more than three million bushels in 1927, while Indiana now has prospects for nearly a normal crop.

Lesson for October 21

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—II Cor. 9:1-15; 9:1-7. GOLDEN TEXT—First gave their own selves to the Lord. PRIMARY TOPIC—Glad Giving. JUNIOR TOPIC—Glad Giving. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What is God's Claim on Us? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Principles of Christian Stewardship.

1. Examples of True Christian Benevolence (II Cor. 9:1-5).

The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every grand principle and motive which enter into the giving which has God's sanction. Observe:

1. This source of true giving (v. 1). This is said to be the grace of God, by which is meant that the disposition to give freely of our means is a disposition created by the Holy Spirit. This puts the Christian giving on a much higher plane than that which brings the people under the bondage of the law to give a tenth.

2. They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2).

Their limited means did not cause them to regret their gift, but their deep poverty abounded unto the "riches of their liberality." On the basis of this philosophy our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return.

3. Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (II Cor. 8:12; 9:7).

If such grace were to come upon the churches today, there would be an abundance of funds to carry on the Lord's work.

4. They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4). They did not need to be pressed into giving. How far we have departed from the apostolic method. Today we employ the awkward and in financial affairs that can be found to make appeals at our missionary meetings and the dedication of our churches.

5. They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5).

This is most fundamental to right giving, for when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not give himself to the Lord there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. The only right method of raising money for the Lord is first to induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord and then to give of their possessions.

6. Emulation of Macedonian Benevolence Urged (II Cor. 8:3-5).

Moved by the generosity of the Macedonians, Paul desired thus to commend to the Corinthians the same grace. This grace he urged upon them, giving:

1. Not as a command (v. 8). It must be spontaneous—liberal.

2. As a proof of the sincerity of the love (v. 8). Love is more than mere sentiment; it is benevolent action toward the object loved.

3. As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, utterance, knowledge, diligence, and in love to their ministers. But the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives.

4. The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the test of love.

5. Because the true principles upon which gifts are acceptable with God is a willing mind (v. 10-12). God does not estimate the value of a gift on the ground of its intrinsic worth, but the underlying motive of the giver.

6. Because of a common equality (v. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is ability.

III. Encouragement to Give (II Cor. 9:6, 7).

1. The volume of reaping is based upon the sowing (v. 6). Those who sow sparingly cannot expect to reap bountifully.

2. There should be a heart purpose (v. 7). This calls for intelligence as to the object of giving.

3. Giving should not be of necessity (v. 7). No particular value accrues to the giver who gives through pressure.

4. God loves a cheerful giver (v. 7). The one who has the right understanding of his responsibility toward God with reference to temporal possessions will regard giving as a glorious privilege.

SCHOOL NEWS

Cedarville-West Alexandria
Cedarville showed some improvement last Friday, when they walloped West Alexandria to the tune of 19 to 0.

The first quarter passed without scoring, but in the second, Randall crossed the line for a touchdown for Cedarville. Huff kicked the goal and the score was 7-0. After another touchdown, making the score 14-0 at the end of the half. Cedarville made a second touchdown in the third quarter, but the kick was blocked, leaving the score 19-0. This was Cedarville's first actual victory this season.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, we met Beaverbrook in the last home game of the season. This is the last game that some of the boys will play on Cedarville's football field. Be there and help them to "Beat Beaver."

Speed Test
Mrs. Lane, our commercial teacher, surprised the typing classes, Thursday, when she announced that there would be a peedtest. The results were that Doris Swaby typed with greatest speed, having an average of 22.3 words per minute. In ten minutes she wrote 231 words with eight errors. Robert Richards won second place. He typed 144 words with only one error.

Many high school pupils were excused early last Tuesday to attend "Ben Hur" in Xenia. This was especially valuable to the literature and Latin classes.

The Superintendent's Office
Considerable effort has been spent to bring the organization and equipment of the central office up to standard.

A complete and modern filing system has been installed. This is necessary in order to maintain accurate records which may be consulted without loss of time.

A standard sized Mimeograph has also been purchased. This is used to print quantities of examination questions, announcements, and all types of written or typewritten work.

A central finance scheme for the school funds has been adopted this year. Each organization makes its deposits in the central office, where the amount is entered in a ledger. There is a separate fund for each organization, but the money is deposited in the bank, as a whole. For example the Athletic Association can find out at any time how much it has on hand. All checks are written by the Superintendent, and only one check book and one pass book are necessary. This system eliminates many small accounts at the bank, and will show all deposits and expenditures.

A "Courtesy Club" has also been organized. This club consists of ten members—one for each period in the day.

The duty of the "Courtesy Club" is to receive visitors who come to the office, answer the telephone, run errands, and in fact take the place of an office secretary.

Those now serving are:
1. Marjorie Young, 2. Elizabeth Evans, 3. Seena Griffin, 4. Bernese Elias, 5. Doris Printz, 6. Helen Kennon, 7. Doris Swaby, 8. Mary Leah Flatter, 9. Jeanette Ritenour, 10. Marion Hostetler.

These students have already proven their worth in office work. Besides the experience they are receiving, most of them are also commercial students in Mrs. Lane's classes. This combined training should result in a valuable addition to the educational equipment of these students. This system will also make all our callers and visitors feel a warm welcome upon entrance to our school building.

Don't forget the Cafeteria Supper, Friday, October 19, at 6:00 o'clock.

The students of the high school have been invited to be guests of Wittenberg College at the Wittenberg-Marshall football game tomorrow. I almost forgot to mention that the teachers are also invited.

The grade cards were given out Wednesday afternoon. Some were good and others—not so good.

Miss Lucile Boots of Columbus has been the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoping for several days.

Miss Lillie Stewart, who has been at the home of Mrs. J. O. Stewart, has returned to her home in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Glick and daughters, of Columbus, spent the weekend with Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Gunnet.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Galloway went to Granville, O., Saturday where they witnessed the football game between Dennison and Miami University.

Guest day was observed Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Townsley by members of the Home Culture Club. Edgar A. Guest, the popular American poet, was the topic for the day. Roll call was by giving a selection of one of the Guest poems. There were two vocal selections by Katherine Van Pelt and two readings by Mrs. A. E. Richards and Mrs. R. C. Ritenour. An interesting biography was given by Mrs. J. Harry Nagley. Following a program the hostess served a two course luncheon.

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Lida Keck Wiggins Here Wednesday

Mrs. Lida Keck Wiggins, Springfield, was in town Wednesday, in the interest of the Republican ticket and especially the judicial ticket.

Mrs. Wiggins says: "We don't want a Democratic Governor again in Ohio. We want a Republican chief executive in the Buckeye state too."

Mrs. Wiggins was especially interested in the judicial ticket and urged the selection of Judge Robert H. Day, Columbus, and Judge Frank W. Geiger, Springfield, both Republican nominees for Judge of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Mrs. Wiggins is working directly under Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan, vice chairman of the State Republican organization.

The Herald had the pleasure some years ago when Mrs. Wiggins was a resident of this place, to be the first newspaper to publish one of her poems. She has composed a campaign song which was accepted by Mrs. Carl Hanna, granddaughter-in-law of the late Mark Hanna, in connection with the Ohio Council of Republican Women. It is the official campaign song for women.

When the Voting Booths Are Opened
(To be sung to the tune of "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder" by J. M. Black)

We're the women of the party that they call the G. O. P.,
And we mean to keep Ohio's record fair.

So from now until election on the job we mean to be,
And when voting booths are opened we'll be there.

CHORUS
When the voting booths are opened,
When the voting booths are opened,
When the voting booths are opened,
When the voting booths are opened,
We'll be there.

We're the women of the party that they call the G. O. P.,
And the burden of the men we mean to share.

Till we put the good old party in the place she ought to be,
So when voting booths are opened we'll be there.

CHORUS
We're the women of the party that they call the G. O. P.,
And we have a mighty trust within our care.

For the men can't win without us the desired majority,
So when voting booths are opened we'll be there.

CHORUS
We're the women of the party that they call the G. O. P.,
And the honor of America we bear.

So we swear again allegiance to the banner of the free,
And when voting booths are opened we'll be there.

CHORUS
—Lida Keck Wiggins.

Housing Costs Too Much For "Loafers"

Pullets Should Be Selected With Care Before They Enter Laying House

Housing, even poultry housing, is too expensive for anything but healthy vigorous pullets which are capable of high production, according to the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State University, which is reminding the poultrymen of Ohio to use care in selecting the birds which are housed this fall for egg production.

"Though all indications point to a highly profitable poultry year," says a statement from the poultry specialists, "egg prices will never be so high that a mediocre or poor pullet will be a profitable bird. Do not house the birds which are small, runty, or show a lack of yellow pigment in the shanks and about the head."

The house into which the pullets are introduced, say the specialists, should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the pullets are put into it, so that all danger of carrying over any disease organism, is eliminated.

When the birds are handled and selected for the laying house, every pullet should be carefully treated for lice. Every pullet should also be treated to rid her of worms. "There probably are few, if any, flocks in Ohio which do not carry some worms," says the department.

Progress Of Milk Sanitary Drive

County Health Commissioner Meets Cleveland Board of Health More Than Half Way

If it takes deeper wells to produce better milk, farmers who are selling milk in the city of Cleveland, will drill deeper wells. Some of them have done so recently, in order to get cooler water to reduce the milk to the proper temperature before it leaves their farms. Four thousand farmers, members of the Ohio Farmers' Cooperative Milk Association, are meeting the stringent regulations of the Cleveland Board of Health, on milk supply, more than half way. The association, minus two whitewash spraying outfits which are sent from barn to barn belonging to members of the association, as part of the program of barn sanitation which is enforced.

Cleveland is taking a leading place among the larger cities of the country, in regulating its milk supply. In January, 1927, the city passed an ordinance requiring all cows from which milk is sold in the city, to be tested for tuberculosis. At first the farmers finding a market in Cleveland resented and opposed these regulations. Now they are going even farther than the city regulations require, in their own sanitation campaign.

The association has appropriated $120,000 to be expended in an educational campaign demonstrating the importance of milk to the consumer, and stressing the advantages of buying milk from selected dairy farms on which every effort is put forth to produce a clean and wholesome product.

LETTER FROM REV. SPROUL

Some few weeks ago the Herald carried a very interesting letter from Rev. H. F. Foster, New York City, and in it he described the log cabin days. This letter brings a note from the Rev. T. C. Sproul, Pittsburgh, formerly pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, O. S., who is now nearly 88 year of age.

By chance a copy of "The Cedarville Herald" fell into my hands, and I was highly pleased and entertained by your description of the "Old Log Cabin" of the early settlers of the wilderness. It brought to my recollection some experiences of my childhood and youth, which I hope, may entertain you a bit, amid the alluring, tawdry surroundings of the big Modern City.

In the early years of the nineteenth century my father moved from Westmoreland to Butler county, about twenty miles north of Pittsburgh, and dropped his farm out of the deep woods. His first house was a log cabin, built near a good spring of ever flowing water. It fitted your description of a log cabin exactly—round logs, notched to fit and held together, and the interstices daubed with clay. The roof was composed of clapboards—long unhewn shingles and weighted down with the weight of poles to keep out the rain or snow, but in winter the fine snow would often sift in between the clapboards, cover our beds with a clean white sheet and keep the sleeper warm till morning. And how we did hate to get out of the warm bed with our warm feet upon the cold floor. But there was always a roaring fire in the wide old fire-place, and we picked up our duds and hastened to get near its comfortable warmth. In such a palatial residence your correspondent was born and lived for a time.

Note the remarkable resemblance that may be traced between the great Abraham Lincoln and myself. Now take notice—Abraham Lincoln was born in a log cabin. So was I. Abraham Lincoln went to school in a log school house; so did I. So far so good, but I am compelled to admit that just at that point the resemblance or similarity between the two abruptly ceases and can never be renewed. But such is fate, or providence or something or another. We started out in life on an equality so far as the circumstances were concerned, but Lincoln far outstripped me in the race, and will be remembered for many generations to come, for the good he did in the world. While my bones will soon be forgotten in the grave.

GIVEN DIVORCE

Florence Davis has been granted a divorce from Ralph Davis in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty. Custody of the child, Dena, has also been confided exclusively to the plaintiff.

The court enjoined the defendant from interfering in the custody but has given him the privilege of visiting her on the second Saturday and Sunday of every other month in the year. The defendant must continue his weekly payments. The court decided, ruling that if he defaults in any payment he will be held in contempt of court. The plaintiff was ordered to recover costs of the action and $15 as reasonable compensation for attorney fees.
